As the use of data and technology becomes more embedded in our daily lives, the likelihood of security incidents and/or data breaches (“incidents”) increases if adequate controls are not in place. Incidents will vary in impact and risk depending on the content, the quantity of data and number of individuals involved, therefore prompt action is required in all instances.

National Fraud Initiative/Data Matching

The Council is required by law to protect the public funds it administers. It may share information provided to it with other bodies responsible for auditing, administering public funds or where undertaking a public function, in order to prevent and detect fraud.

The Council is required to participate in the Cabinet Office's National Fraud Initiative: a data matching exercise to assist in the prevention and detection of fraud. The Council is obliged to provide particular sets of data to the Minister for the Cabinet Office for matching for each exercise. The Cabinet Office is responsible for carrying out data matching exercises in accordance with the <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/code-of-data-matching-practice-for-national-fraud-initiative>.

Data matching involves comparing computer records held by one body against other computer records held by the same or another body to see how far they match. This is usually personal information. Computerised data matching allows potentially fraudulent claims and payments to be identified. Where a match is found it may indicate that there is an inconsistency which requires further investigation. No assumption can be made as to whether there is fraud, error or other explanation until an investigation is carried out.
